

Win a $10,000 National Championship... Without Leaving Bremerton Raceway!

Bremerton Raceway is proud to announce participation in the 2021 ThisIsBracketRacing.com Driver Series. The series is designed to reward racers for local accomplishments by competing on a national scale without the need to leave their home track!

The ThisIsBracketRacing Driver Series will crown national champions in both the Box and No Box categories. The 2021 national champions will each receive $10,000 courtesy of ThisIsBracketRacing.com!

Lane Cavar (Top Bulb) and Kip Poole (Bottom Bulb) were crowned inaugural champions of the Driver Series in 2020. They will no doubt look to defend their crown as the series expands to include around 20 host tracks in 2021.

Eight of Bremerton Raceway's regularly scheduled events will be selected at which drivers can earn points toward Driver Series championships (April 25th, May 9th, 16th, June 6th, July 18th, August 8th, 22nd, September 11th). Racers will earn points at their best six finishes among those eight events.

The series consists of two classes: top and bottom bulb. The entry fee is \$50 per class (each class, top and bottom, is a separate entry fee for racers who choose to participate in both). The entry fee is a one-time payment and separate from your entry fee at the track.

In addition to the championship purse, if the championship driver is a current ThisIsBracketRacing ELITE member, that driver will earn an additional $2,500 bonus from ThisIsBracketRacing!

Look for additional information soon on thisisbracketracing.com as prizes and incentives well beyond the national championship windfall are added to the program. For more details and to sign up for points at your track, visit: thisisbracketracing.com/driverseries
